

EDO YOUTHS
SCOTLAND

COMMUNITY MANIFESTO & AGENCY NARRATIVE TOOLKIT

For Edo Youths Scotland CIC Agency

Edo-rooted. Scotland-connected. Future-focused.

"Home is never far away when community becomes a bridge."

A MANIFESTO FOR BELONGING, OPPORTUNITY AND CULTURE

A copy-ready narrative document for EYS community members, volunteers, directors, partners and supporters.

This document translates the Edo Youths Scotland CIC Agency business plan into a clear public voice: a manifesto for the community, a professional narrative for the agency, and a reusable communication toolkit for launches, social media, member onboarding, funder applications and partner conversations.

It is designed to help every EYS representative speak with one voice: proud of Edo heritage, committed to Scotland, open to the wider public, and serious about lawful, fair, responsible community enterprise.

Core message

EYS exists to help Edo youths and other underserved young people in Scotland earn, learn and belong - without losing their identity, dignity or cultural pride.

Contents

1. The EYS founding narrative
2. The full EYS manifesto
3. The EYS community narrative
4. The EYS agency narrative
5. The EYS promise: Earn. Learn. Belong.
6. The brand and logo story
7. Copy-ready public messages
8. Partner and funder narrative
9. Messaging rules and safe language
10. Member pledge and community code
11. Launch campaign narrative
12. Closing declaration

Use note

This is a brand and community narrative document. It is not legal, immigration, employment or safeguarding advice. EYS should continue to use regulated advisers and professional partners for specialist matters.

1. The EYS Founding Narrative

Where we come from. Why we are building. Who we are becoming.

We are Edo by heritage, Scottish by contribution, and global by possibility.

EYS narrative line

Edo Youths Scotland was born from a simple but powerful truth: people thrive when they are seen, supported and connected. For many young Edo people and other minority youths in Scotland, ambition is present, talent is present, culture is present - but the right platform is often missing.

EYS exists to become that platform. It is a community home, a professional bridge and a cultural voice. It gives young people a place to showcase their professions, businesses, talents and achievements. It creates pathways into skills, enterprise, employment, mentorship, welfare support, belonging and community leadership.

EYS is not only about preserving culture. It is about activating culture. Edo heritage teaches dignity, craft, discipline, creativity, respect, enterprise and public service. In Scotland, those values can become a force for integration, contribution and positive visibility.

The organisation is proudly Edo-rooted, but its impact is not closed. EYS serves the Edo community while contributing to the wider Scottish public. Its work supports minority youths, emerging businesses, community organisations, Scottish enterprises, families, volunteers and local residents who believe in a more inclusive society.

The narrative in one sentence

EYS is a minority-led community enterprise agency that turns cultural belonging into lawful opportunity, public contribution and shared pride.

The problem EYS responds to

- Many talented minority youths lack a trusted platform to showcase their work, build confidence and connect with the Scottish economy.
- New arrivals and diaspora youths can experience loneliness, isolation, uncertainty, welfare pressures and weak social connection.
- Some young people have business ideas but need safe, compliant guidance before trading, working or promoting services.
- Edo culture is rich and visible within families, but needs stronger public recognition within Scotland and the UK.
- Small organisations and start-ups often need affordable, reliable, values-led support but cannot always access it easily.

The opportunity EYS creates

- A place where home never feels far away.
- A trusted bridge between minority talent and Scottish opportunity.

- A platform for lawful enterprise, fair work, mentoring and visibility.
- A movement that celebrates Edo identity while serving the wider public.
- A CIC agency model that reinvests value into community benefit rather than private gain.

What EYS will become

A recognised minority-led CIC agency that makes Edo culture visible, supports young people practically, and helps Scotland see diaspora communities as partners in growth, service and innovation.

2. The Full EYS Manifesto

A statement for members, launch events, websites, brochures and community gatherings.

EARN. LEARN. BELONG.

The three-word promise of Edo Youths Scotland.

We are the children of heritage and the builders of possibility.

We carry Edo identity with honour, but we do not stand still in memory. We bring the strength of our ancestors into the realities of today. We bring our language, food, art, discipline, humour, enterprise and family spirit into Scotland with respect and purpose.

We believe culture is not a wall. Culture is a bridge. It connects generations. It gives confidence to young people. It teaches responsibility. It gives us a name, a story and a reason to contribute.

We believe every young person deserves more than survival. They deserve belonging, opportunity, mentorship, safety, visibility and the chance to build a life with dignity.

We believe Edo youths in Scotland should be known not only for where they come from, but for what they contribute: businesses created, skills developed, families supported, communities strengthened, partners served and futures built.

We believe that no young person should have to choose between integration and identity. We can become useful in Scotland without disappearing into Scotland. We can be proud of Edo culture while being responsible, respectful and active members of Scottish society.

We believe enterprise must be lawful, ethical and fair. EYS will never stand for shortcuts that put people at risk. We will build bridges into safe work, business readiness, volunteering, training, mentoring and professional support.

We believe community care is serious work. Welfare, hospitality, disputes, family support, loneliness and isolation are not side issues. They are human issues. When one person is lost, the whole community loses strength. When one person rises, the whole community gains courage.

We believe young people should not wait to be invited into leadership. EYS is a platform where they can speak, serve, create, organise, lead and be seen.

We believe our public image matters. We will carry ourselves with respect. We will celebrate achievement. We will correct each other with dignity. We will protect the name of Edo Youths Scotland through discipline, honesty and service.

We are not only an association. We are a movement. We are not only a network. We are a bridge. We are not only preserving culture. We are building futures.

This is our call: earn with dignity, learn with humility, belong with pride, serve with integrity, and build a legacy that makes home proud.

3. The EYS Community Narrative

The warm, human story for members, families and the wider Edo community.

The EYS Community is the heart of the movement. It is where people are welcomed, known, encouraged and connected. It is where a young person can arrive in Scotland and find people who understand their background, their accent, their uncertainty, their ambition and their hopes.

The community side of EYS is built on belonging. It supports members through connection, welfare signposting, hospitality, dispute-sensitive guidance, family navigation, wellbeing conversations and opportunities to participate in cultural life.

Community promise

When you enter EYS, you should feel three things: you are not alone, you have something valuable to offer, and there is a pathway forward.

Community voice

Edo Youths Scotland is a home away from home for Edo youths and friends of the community in Scotland. We create spaces where young people can feel seen, celebrate their culture, build confidence, share their skills, receive support and contribute to society. We believe belonging is not passive. Belonging is built through service, participation and mutual care.

What community members can expect

- A respectful welcome, whether they are new to Scotland or already settled.
- Opportunities to showcase professions, businesses, talents and achievements.
- Community circles that reduce loneliness and isolation.
- Mentoring, confidence-building and leadership opportunities.
- Signposting to welfare, housing, workplace, family and wellbeing support where needed.
- Cultural events, showcases and public moments that celebrate Edo identity.
- A values-led network that encourages accountability, discipline and contribution.

Community statement for public use

EYS is where Edo youths in Scotland come to be seen, supported and prepared to contribute.

4. The EYS Agency Narrative

The professional story for clients, councils, funders, employers and enterprise partners.

The EYS Agency is the structured service arm of Edo Youths Scotland CIC. It exists to turn community trust into practical opportunity. It connects talent with lawful work, business development, mentoring, service delivery, cultural intelligence and public benefit.

The agency model should be described as a compliance-led enterprise and employability bridge. It is not a workaround for restrictions. It is a safe front door into the correct pathway: employment, self-employment where permitted, volunteering, training, business readiness, mentoring, referral or incubation.

Agency positioning

EYS Agency helps people move from hidden talent to visible, lawful contribution - while giving Scottish organisations access to reliable, culturally intelligent, values-led support.

Agency voice

EYS Agency is a community enterprise platform connecting minority talent, emerging businesses and Scottish organisations through fair work, responsible enterprise support, cultural visibility and practical service delivery. We help people access opportunities safely, professionally and lawfully, while reinvesting value into community wellbeing and youth development.

What the agency can offer

- A member business and professional directory that increases visibility for Edo and minority talent.
- A compliance-led intake pathway that helps members understand whether they are trading-ready, employment-ready or incubation-ready.
- Affordable, fair and reliable service teams for start-ups, grassroots organisations, events and community projects.
- Mentorship and referral routes into business support, enterprise advice and professional development.
- Cultural showcase events, community engagement support and partnership campaigns.
- A discount and benefits network that encourages local patronage and community circulation of value.
- Commissioned outreach, research participation, cultural insight and inclusion support for public and third-sector partners.

What EYS Agency must never claim

- That it can bypass visa, immigration, tax, employment or business restrictions.
- That it provides immigration advice unless properly regulated or delivered through a qualified partner.
- That it offers “cheap labour” as its value proposition.
- That it can operate regulated care or fostering services without proper registration and professional governance.
- That members can trade through EYS without due diligence, right-to-work checks and role-specific compliance.

5. The EYS Promise: Earn. Learn. Belong.

A simple framework that turns the business plan into a memorable public promise.

Promise	Meaning
Earn	EYS helps members become more visible, employable and enterprise-ready. This includes lawful work pathways, business showcasing, service opportunities, mentoring and partner referrals.
Learn	EYS builds inter-personal and intra-personal confidence through training, leadership, business support, cultural learning, workplace readiness, communication and community responsibility.
Belong	EYS creates a home-like community where members can find friendship, support, cultural pride, wellbeing connection and a sense that home is never far away.

How to explain it simply

EYS helps young people earn through lawful opportunity, learn through mentorship and skills, and belong through culture, care and community.

The four service lines behind the promise

Service line	Narrative role
EYS Belonging Hub	Welcome, buddying, welfare signposting, community circles, wellbeing check-ins, family navigation, loneliness reduction and cultural connection.
EYS Bridge	Compliance-led enterprise and employability triage: trading-ready, employment-ready or incubation-ready pathways.
EYS WorkHub	Fair, reliable and affordable service delivery for small organisations, start-ups, events and community partners, supported by clear terms and proper work standards.
EYS Advantage	Member directory, discounts, partner benefits, showcases, cultural events and buy-from-within campaigns that keep value circulating.

6. The Brand and Logo Story

The visual language of heritage, unity and movement.

The EYS logo tells the story of origin and direction. It represents Edo heritage, ancestral strength, tradition, unity, growth, pride and the energy of young people in the diaspora.

- The face at the centre represents identity, memory, dignity and cultural confidence.
- The interwoven form represents connection, movement, protection and collective strength.
- The bold visual style reflects seriousness, visibility and a movement prepared to stand publicly.
- The black, white, gold, green and orange variations allow the brand to adapt across community, agency and merchandise settings.

Brand sentence

The logo is more than a mark. It is a call to unity, service and pride in who we are.

Brand personality

Trait	Meaning
Proud	EYS speaks with cultural confidence without excluding others.
Warm	EYS makes members feel welcomed, not judged.
Professional	EYS handles agency work, partnerships and compliance with discipline.
Youthful	EYS is energetic, creative and open to new ideas.
Responsible	EYS avoids unsafe promises and builds lawful, accountable pathways.
Public-serving	EYS exists for community benefit, not private extraction.

7. Copy-Ready Public Messages

Use these for websites, flyers, WhatsApp groups, Instagram captions and event programmes.

Use	Copy
One-line description	Edo Youths Scotland CIC Agency is a community enterprise platform helping Edo youths and other underserved young people in Scotland earn, learn and belong through culture, enterprise, welfare connection and lawful opportunity.
Short public bio	EYS is a proudly Edo-rooted, Scotland-connected CIC agency creating pathways for young people to showcase their talents, build skills, access mentoring, find community and contribute to Scottish society.
Community invite	Whether you are new to Scotland, building your career, growing a business, looking for support or simply searching for a place that feels like home, EYS welcomes you.
Agency invite	Partner with EYS to access diverse talent, culturally intelligent support, community insight and ethical service delivery while helping young people build confidence, income and belonging.
Funder description	EYS tackles social isolation, under-recognised talent and unequal access to opportunity by combining community belonging, enterprise support, fair work pathways, cultural visibility and professional referral networks.
Public slogan	Home is never far away.
Professional slogan	Culture-powered opportunity. Compliance-led enterprise. Community-rooted growth.

Social media captions

Caption

We are building more than a network. We are building a home for Edo youths in Scotland - a place to earn, learn and belong. #EdoYouthsScotland #EarnLearnBelong

Caption

Culture is not a wall. Culture is a bridge. EYS connects Edo heritage with Scottish opportunity through community, enterprise and service.

Caption

To every young person looking for belonging, visibility or a pathway forward: your story matters, your skill matters, your future matters. Welcome to EYS.

Caption

EYS Agency connects community talent with responsible opportunity. We believe in fair work, lawful enterprise, cultural pride and public benefit.

Tagline bank

- Edo-rooted. Scotland-connected. Future-focused.
- Home is never far away.
- Culture with purpose. Community with power.
- From heritage to opportunity.
- A bridge for talent, belonging and contribution.
- Visible culture. Lawful opportunity. Shared progress.

8. Partner and Funder Narrative

How to explain EYS to organisations that can support, commission or collaborate.

EYS should present itself to partners as a trusted community gateway. Many public, private and third-sector organisations want to reach minority communities, support young people, improve inclusion and find diverse talent, but do not always have the trust, cultural fluency or relationship depth to do it well. EYS can close that gap.

For funders, the strongest narrative is that EYS combines measurable social impact with earned-income potential. It is not only seeking grants for activities. It is building a CIC agency model that can generate value and reinvest that value into community benefit.

Partner proposition

Work with EYS when you want inclusion that is trusted, talent that is visible, engagement that is culturally grounded, and impact that reaches real people.

Partner pitch - 60 seconds

Edo Youths Scotland CIC Agency is a community enterprise platform supporting Edo youths and other underserved young people in Scotland. We combine cultural belonging, welfare signposting, enterprise readiness, fair work pathways and public-facing showcases. Our agency model helps young people become visible and useful within the Scottish community while giving partners access to community trust, diverse talent and culturally intelligent support. We are looking for partners who can provide mentoring, referrals, commissions, venues, discounts, sponsorship, work opportunities and professional guidance.

What EYS can ask partners for

- Mentors for business, careers, wellbeing, finance, leadership and professional development.
- Discounts and benefits for EYS members.
- Small contracts or service commissions suitable for EYS WorkHub teams.
- Venues for showcases, circles, workshops and cultural events.
- Referral partnerships with regulated advisers and specialist services.
- Sponsorship for youth programmes, enterprise showcases and cultural visibility campaigns.
- Joint inclusion, research, employment and community engagement projects.

What partners receive

- A credible gateway into a vibrant minority community.
- Community-rooted insight and participation.
- Positive visibility through partnership with a values-led CIC.
- Access to emerging talent, entrepreneurs, volunteers and cultural ambassadors.
- A practical route to demonstrate inclusion, social value and local community benefit.

9. Messaging Rules and Safe Language

How EYS should speak clearly, proudly and responsibly.

Because EYS combines welfare, enterprise, agency work and community support, language must be both inspiring and careful. The organisation should sound confident, but never promise services that it cannot lawfully or professionally deliver.

Preferred language	Language to avoid
Say	EYS creates lawful pathways into work, enterprise readiness, volunteering, mentoring and community participation.
Do not say	EYS helps people bypass restrictions or trade through us regardless of status.
Say	EYS offers affordable, fair and reliable support for start-ups, grassroots groups and community projects.
Do not say	EYS provides cheap labour.
Say	EYS signposts to regulated immigration, legal, welfare and family-support professionals where specialist advice is needed.
Do not say	EYS gives immigration advice, legal advice or regulated care services unless properly authorised.
Say	EYS is Edo-rooted and open to wider community benefit.
Do not say	EYS only benefits a closed membership group.
Say	EYS handles disputes through respectful conduct, mediation signposting, safeguarding principles and clear policies.
Do not say	EYS guarantees to solve every family, welfare or dispute issue internally.

Tone rules

- Lead with dignity, not desperation.
- Lead with opportunity, not charity alone.
- Lead with compliance, not shortcuts.
- Lead with public benefit, not private gain.
- Lead with Edo pride, not exclusion.
- Lead with fair work, not cheapness.
- Lead with service, not status.

10. Member Pledge and Community Code

A values statement for onboarding, meetings, events and membership forms.

THE EYS MEMBER PLEDGE

A public commitment to dignity, service and unity.

13. I will carry the name of Edo Youths Scotland with respect.
14. I will honour Edo culture while contributing positively to Scottish society.
15. I will use my skills, voice and presence to build, not divide.
16. I will seek lawful and ethical opportunity, not shortcuts that put myself or others at risk.
17. I will support fellow members with dignity, confidentiality and care.
18. I will celebrate the success of others and share opportunities where I can.
19. I will respect differences in age, gender, background, faith, immigration journey, profession and personal experience.
20. I will protect the community from gossip, exploitation, discrimination and harmful conduct.
21. I will learn, serve and grow so that my presence strengthens EYS and the wider public.
22. I will remember that home is not only where I come from; home is also what I help build.

Community code in five words

Value	Standard
Respect	Treat people with dignity even during disagreement.
Service	Bring value before seeking recognition.
Integrity	Do what is lawful, honest and fair.
Unity	Protect connection across differences.
Excellence	Represent Edo heritage and EYS with quality and discipline.

11. Launch Campaign Narrative

Ready-to-use wording for a public launch, introductory campaign or first anniversary.

The launch should tell a story of movement, not administration. It should make people feel that EYS is both emotionally necessary and professionally credible.

Launch headline options

- A New Home for Edo Youths in Scotland
- Earn. Learn. Belong.
- Culture, Opportunity and Community in Motion
- Where Edo Heritage Meets Scottish Opportunity
- Home Is Never Far Away
- Building Belonging. Creating Pathways. Celebrating Edo Culture.

Launch speech opening

Speech opening

Today we are not simply launching an organisation. We are declaring that Edo youths in Scotland deserve a platform - a place to be seen, supported, challenged, celebrated and prepared to contribute. EYS is our answer to isolation, invisibility and missed opportunity. It is our bridge between heritage and the future.

Launch announcement

Edo Youths Scotland CIC Agency is proud to launch as a community enterprise platform for belonging, cultural visibility, enterprise support and lawful opportunity. Our mission is to empower Edo youths and other underserved young people in Scotland by giving them a platform to showcase their professions, businesses, skills and achievements while building confidence, connection and contribution within the Scottish community.

Through EYS Community and EYS Agency, we will support members to earn, learn and belong - combining welfare signposting, mentoring, business visibility, fair work pathways, cultural showcases and partner collaboration. We are proudly Edo-rooted, Scotland-connected and future-focused.

Call to action

Join the movement. Support the mission. Partner with the platform. Help us make home never feel far away.

12. Closing Declaration

A final shareable statement for the movement.

We are Edo Youths Scotland.

We are the proof that heritage can travel and still remain strong.

We are the proof that young people can belong in more than one place without being divided.

We are the proof that culture can become service, service can become opportunity, and opportunity can become legacy.

We will build with discipline. We will welcome with warmth. We will trade with integrity. We will partner with respect. We will serve with humility. We will celebrate with pride.

Our community will not be hidden. Our young people will not be wasted. Our culture will not be silent. Our future will not be accidental.

We are here to earn. We are here to learn. We are here to belong. We are here to contribute.

Edo-rooted. Scotland-connected. Future-focused.

This is EYS.

Internal reference basis

Prepared using the EYS CIC Agency Business Plan, the EYS mission and vision, and the uploaded EYS logo story and visual identity assets.